This course is provided in conjunction with the IRS Volunteer Income Tax Assistance (VITA) Program and the local United Way, and the coursework involves preparing for IRS certification exams, preparing tax returns for low-income clients, and providing tax advice on complex tax situations. Since taking over Purdue's program in 2017, I grew the program to be among the largest in the state and among the largest university-affiliated programs in the country. During my time in charge of the program (2017-2023), Purdue VITA prepared over 22,000 tax returns, which generated over $20 million in community impact. I innovated processes and systems to allow the program to serve clients remotely and expand its footprint, which enabled the program to run at full capacity even through the COVID-19 pandemic. Through my work in MGMT 59000, I was recognized by the college and university through both teaching and service awards, including the Jefferson Award, the highest service award in the university, and Board of Trustees recognition. My work has also been recognized with the local United Way's highest community service award.
